Midnight Munchies

by Siobhan Adcock

on 03/28/10 at 09:01 AM

An Epicurious member who wants to lose weight posted this week in the Recipe Swap forum about trying to swear off midnight snacks...or at least reach for healthy alternatives when the hunger monster makes a late-night house call. Suggestions from other Epi members so far have ranged from the traditional (crackers and cheese, a sure comfort-food bet for a rumbling belly) to the super-specific (Mr. Boston Cherry Brandy).

Speaking just for myself, when I wake up hungry at night these days, I know I have the Small Person to blame (pregnancy hunger pangs rarely seem to strike at convenient times), but since I can rationalize that the Small Person might just be legitimately hungry, I'm not exercising as much restraint as I probably should on my late-night refrigerator raids. I do like a cup of warm milk, but sometimes that milk's gotta go down with a little peanut butter and jelly, if you take my meaning.

What midnight snacks do you reach for? Are you a conscientious late-night snacker or do you let your cravings rule the night?
